

PATIENT INFORMATION

How We Use Information About You

We use your information to support safe, quality care and provide best experience with our health and social care services; we only keep information about you that is necessary to inform the decisions that we make about your care and to help us work effectively with other organisations involved in delivering that.

We keep this information because it may be needed if we see you again. Some information we keep about you may be stored electronically and we are responsible for ensuring this information is safe. We only store information as long as necessary to comply with our legal obligations.

We may also use information for other reasons to help us protect the health of the public in general, manage and plan our services for the future including measuring our performance and ensuring NHS services run efficiently, to help our staff review care and care quality standards, for staff development and continual improvement of competency, and for invoicing and accounting purposes. You can opt out of the Trust using your information for secondary processes such as research and service planning. This is called the "NHS National Data Opt Out".

You can find out more information about the National Data Opt Out by visiting this website: <https://www.nhs.uk/your-nhs-data-matters/> or by contacting your GP Practice

ALL STAFF HAVE A LEGAL DUTY TO KEEP YOUR INFORMATION CONFIDENTIAL.

We may be legally required to share information in some circumstances, such as to notify of births or for prevention of crime. Wherever it is possible to do so, we will inform you about this sharing.

We use a Shared Electronic Patient Record (EPR) for most acute and community services; this means your record is shared automatically with Royal Devon University Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust and University Hospitals Plymouth NHS Trust if you receive care from them. You can find out more about the Shared EPR on our website. If you receive care from other organisations and our NHS partners, we may need to share information about you or the services we have provided.

We only ever pass on information where there is a genuine need for it and only as much information as is necessary. Where possible we will modify the information to no longer identify you or keep this restricted to only our staff (anonymisation and pseudonymisation respectively).

ANYONE WHO RECEIVES INFORMATION FROM US HAS A LEGAL DUTY OF CONFIDENTIALITY.

With your consent, your relatives, friends and carers will be kept up to date with the progress of your care. You can update your sharing preferences using our patient application MY CARE.

We uphold your rights to control your information and recognise our responsibility for protecting personal and confidential information in all that we do. We put in place security measures and monitor these to ensure compliance with our legal obligations, including:

- Data Protection Act 2018
- Human Rights Act 1998
- Health & Social Care Act 2012
- The common law duty of confidentiality

You have the right to access information that we hold about you, including that which is held electronically, under the Data Protection Act 2018. A request can be made in writing or electronically to our team who will help complete that request. More information is available on our public site or by contacting us:
